

RELEVANCE

The mission of the 4-H and Youth Development Program is to empower youth to reach their full potential, working and learning in partnership with caring adults. As the youth development program of the Cooperative Extension Service of land-grant universities, 4-H is the nation's largest youth development organization, empowering six million young people throughout the United States.

The primary goal is to promote the child's stages of development - intellectually, physically, socially, and emotionally.

- Develop Self-Esteem
- Decision-Making Skills (making positive choices)
- Comprehensive Skills (learning how to learn; positive attitudes toward learning)
- Mastering Physical Skills (enjoying constructive and creative play)
- Social-Interaction Skills (getting along with others)
- Diversity Skills (acceptance of others; exploring family and community relationships)

Children possessing these life skills are less likely to have problems with drug use, school failure, delinquency, and depression as they move into their teenage years and then into adulthood.

RESPONSE

The 2015 Texas Community Futures Forum conducted in Lubbock County identified 4-H work, programs and leadership development as an issue to be addressed by the Lubbock County Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service. The Lubbock County 4-H Youth and Adult Advisory Board also determined that this issue should be addressed. Agent Alexander implemented the 4-H Clover project to further promote the Lubbock County 4-H program, increase the 4-H membership through Clover participation and graduate Clovers into the 4-H program.

The goals of the program were to:

- increase the involvement of 4-H Clovers (youth grades K - 2nd) in the Lubbock County 4-H Program through educational events, monthly meetings, activities, and project participation.
- grow the 4-H membership through graduation of Clovers to regular 4-H members upon 3rd grade.
